ABOUT

Jeff Lanier is a Texas-based modern American painter and author who lives and works in Houston. He is a self-taught artist who has developed his practice through independent study, professional experience in the art world, and a dedicated studio practice. Jeff Lanier's current work reimagines retro imagery through the lens of contemporary minimalism.

Drawing on vintage Americana, classic advertising, and mid-century pop culture, he blends bold, graphic elements with clean fields of color and structured banding. The result is a body of work that feels nostalgic yet distinctly modern — familiar forms distilled into fresh, sculptural compositions.

At its core, his practice is driven by fundamentals: the tension between mark and image, the balance of line, color, and space, and the pursuit of depth and mood through palette. Each painting is both playful and precise, inviting viewers into a world that echoes the past while speaking in the language of today.
